

Body percussion links:

Did you know you can make music at home without needing any special equipment at all? We can all use our bodies to make music by stamping, clapping, clicking, patting and any other way you can think of. Here's an example of professionals doing a festive version: Santa Claus is coming to town! Body percussion - YouTube

The links below are fab to try at home - they even help to build up our skills of reading music scores. Why not video yourself and share it with us on Twitter? We'd love to see it! You can also make up your own body percussion to go with your favourite piece of music. Try using symbols like the ones in these clips to let others know how to perform your new piece of body percussion.
